CNCo awarded Silver recognition by EcoVadis, a global sustainability rating agency

Singapore – The China Navigation Company (CNCo) was recently awarded Silver recognition by EcoVadis, a global business sustainability rating agency. We are also in the top 30 per cent of performers EcoVadis evaluated.

The comprehensive review covered a broad range of non-financial management systems including environmental, labour and human rights, ethics and sustainable procurement. CNCo's clients use EcoVadis' platform to ensure sustainability within their respective supply chains. We achieved an overall score of 59, placing us at the 87th percentile. This meant that our score was higher than, or equal to, the score of 87 percent of all companies assessed by EcoVadis.

“This is an awesome result,” said Simon Bennett, General Manager, Sustainable Development. “We would like to thank all our colleagues for their support and we look forward to continue working with everyone on our sustainability journey, and striving to move up into the next division at the time of the next review.”
